NEW SAWMILL STARTED UP LAST MONDAY

Much Larger Than the Old and Contains Many Features That Will Aid Production Materially.

The best music that Wrangell has heard in a long time is the hum of the saw at the new mill of the Willson & Sylvester Mill company which started up in earnest Monday morning. A try-out was made on Friday and Saturday and everything found to be in perfect working order.

It was last March that fire destroyed the old Willson, Sylvester mill that had been the mainstay of the town for about 30 years. Men were suddenly out of employment, the season's box orders had to be cancelled and canneries had to look elsewhere for their boxes, and the loss to the entire community was a severe one.

It was not until August that the work of rebuilding the plant began in earnest under the direction of H. T. Hendricks of Everett, Washington. Meanwhile, the company had been reorganized with H. W. Gartley as business manager, and plans had been perfected for a mill that would be far superior to the old plant.

The new mill occupies more ground than the old and contains features that will aid production very materially. The engines and boilers have concrete foundations, and there are large Dutch ovens in front of the boilers. Power set-works and steam-feed are also among the improvements. The capacity of the mill will be between 40 and 50 thousand.

The box factory will be started in about a month. The yard contains a large amount of air-dried lumber for this season's boxes and by the time that is used, more will be ready.

Mr. Gartley stated that the outlook for the coming season is promising. Owing to the high freight rates, mills outside cannot compete profitably with Alaska mills for the local trade.

The old Willson, Sylvester mill supplied boxes for a great many of the canneries of Southeastern Alaska in the past, and lumber for outlying places as well as locally. The new company looks to its customers of the past as well as to new ones for the patronage that will guarantee the future success of the new plant. A uniform degree of excellence will be maintained in the manufacture of lumber and boxes, and a dependable product may be secured from this mill at all times.

PUBLIC VOLLEY BALL GAME

March 24, 8 p. m. at St. Philip's Gymnasium

Those who saw the first volley ball game between a picked team from the Physical Culture club and a picked team of the Volley Ball club were more than delighted. On account of greater experience and longer practice the Volley Ball club won. A return game will be played Monday evening, March 24th. Both clubs are practicing and a jolly good game is expected. A slight admission of 10c will be charged, the proceeds going to help in some of the necessary spring painting in the Gymnasium.

Nussbaumer Hints of Home Coming

The publisher of the Sentinel this week received a letter from Nicholas Nussbaumer written from Paris under the date of February 5, in which he stated that he hopes to leave for home before the end of 1919. He also stated that it was snowing and the weather very disagreeable at the time he was writing. The letter was written on Moose stationery. He says: "I am spending a few pleasant moments today in our Paris home. There is always a jolly crowd on hand and one never fails to enjoy a visit to the home."

His address is

N. Nussbaumer,
12th Co. 20th Engineers,
A. E. F., France.

NEW BOAT BEING BUILT FOR STIKINE

Captain Sid Barrington Making Preparations to Take Care of the Coming Season's Business.

Capt. S. C. Barrington is having a new river boat built which, for efficiency will surpass anything that has gone up the Stikine.

The design of the new boat was worked out by Capt. Chas. M. Binkley, who is in charge of the construction.

The popular Hazel B III, which operated on the river the past two years is as good as ever, and will see service again the coming season.

The new boat will be somewhat larger than the Hazel B III. One of the reasons for building the new boat is to provide a safeguard against interruption of service should anything happen to the Hazel B III. Another reason is that there will be times when a boat with greater carrying capacity than the Hazel B III will be required.

The new boat will be 65 feet in length, 16 ft. beam; equipped with a six-cylinder Wisconsin 100 h. p. engine. Unlike the Hazel B III it will have no tunnel. Greater efficiency is possible without the tunnel. However, when the water is very low a boat with a tunnel possesses an advantage over one having no tunnel.

The hull of the boat is being built of fir, while the house is constructed of spruce and cedar. One of the chief aims in its construction is lightness. The boards that will be used for the walls of the staterooms are only five-sixteenths of an inch in thickness, but the bracing is so well distributed as to give all needed strength.

The new boat, like the Hazel B III, will possess the quality of springiness. It will be so constructed that its bottom will bend up and down with the stream to a certain extent, thereby giving a tremendous advantage over boats possessing more rigidity. And the boat will be built in such a way that this springing of the hull will not cause the house to become rickety, the quality of elasticity being maintained throughout in its construction.

Telegraph Creek, which is the head of navigation on the Stikine is 162 miles northeast of Wrangell. The new boat will easily make the voyage in 24 hours. This quick time is all the more to be appreciated when one considers that the Stikine is a swift mountain stream, with numerous riffles, and from the mouth of the river to Telegraph Creek is almost a constant climb.

The new boat will be ready for a voyage up the river as soon as navigation opens, which will probably be about the first of May.

A carload of lignite from Billy Lynn's mine was recently brought into Nenana for distribution to the people in town. The coal is being distributed so that it may be tried out in the homes of Nenanaites and will be sold at a low figure to cover the cost of production, the Alaska Engineering Commission making no charge for the haul.

For the shave and haircut of satisfaction go to Ed Grigwire's shop, opposite drug store.

Herring Packers Warned Against Poor Cooperage

(By Aug. H. D. Klie, Herring Expert.)

Packers of Scotch cure herring in Alaska will make a very serious mistake if, as has been reported, they attempt to cut down operating expenses this coming season by using inferior containers. This coming year packers will have to sell their fish on their merits, since large lots of Scotch and other foreign cures will again find their way into the market. Certain defects, especially in the curing, were overlooked last season on account of the very heavy demand for the Alaska Scotch cure; but, unless the packers are far more careful than last season, they will have considerable difficulty in selling their fish on account of the fact that the inspection will be much more severe than heretofore.

With the Norwegian and other hard cures, the fish are so heavily salted that a dry or leaky barrel does not have a disastrous effect on the cure; but with the Scotch cure there should be no loose or free salt after the 12th or 14th day of cure, so that it is absolutely necessary that the barrel be of high grade to hold the pickle, which is really the life of the Scotch cure herring. Dry or leaky barrels are often the cause of tainted or rusty herring, for which there is no sale. Thinner staves than those adopted by the Bureau of Fisheries for the Scotch barrel are a decided disadvantage. First of all, the fish are cured much lighter than in any other method of packing herring and therefore require more protection from heat which a thicker stave affords; and, secondly, the journey from the curing station to the regular herring centers is almost twice as far as from Scotland to New York, making it essential that only the best grades of wood and workmanship be used. The barrels are not only handled very much oftener during the trip from Alaska to New York than the imported product but the handling is very much rougher as well.

Last season some barrels were made to imitate the standard barrel adopted by the United States Bureau of Fisheries. The standard barrel was set up originally by the Western Cooperage company, under instructions of the special representative on Scotch cure of the United States Bureau of Fisheries. The barrels made in imitation of the standard barrel were by far too frail; the iron or steel hoops were not alone too narrow but also too light. The Eastern trade knows the difference between the various kinds of barrels used in the various countries; and, often when buying fish that are of equal quality, selects the parcel that is packed in the best cooperage. One lot packed in Alaska last year did not pass inspection in Seattle as to selection, cure of fish, etc., but found a buyer at a slightly reduced price because of being packed in the standard Scotch-style barrels—something the trade demanded in the East.

Repairing and recoopering barrels that are leaky or otherwise defective are big problems in New York—especially during hot weather, and with coopers or repairmen almost unobtainable. What one imagines is saved by buying a cheaper barrel of inferior grade is more than offset by heavy cooperage charges when the fish arrive in Seattle, where they must again be overhauled before allowing them to be

MERLIN PALMER DIED A HERO ON FOREIGN SOIL

In November the Sentinel announced that Merlin Palmer, a brother of O. C. Palmer of Wrangell, had made the supreme sacrifice in France.

This week Mr. Palmer received the following information concerning his brother's death:

In Germany, Jan. 3.—Your letter of November 17 to the commander of the Seventeenth in re Merlin Palmer has been received. As I was a special friend of Merlin's the clerk referred the matter to me.

I was with Merlin at the time of his death, and I know that there was absolutely no suffering as he was killed instantly. We were in a small hole together on the 6th of October where we had made an attack on October 4. We were under heavy shell fire.

I have Merlin's pocket-book, gold knife and ring. A Y.M.C.A. lady in Paris has his camera and leather-bound diary book. Merlin left these things with her with the understanding that in case of his death they were to be sent to his people in the States. I will send his things that I have the first opportunity.

I am very sorry to state that I have no way of knowing the exact location of Merlin's grave as he was buried on the field.

I am glad to say that I was a good friend of Merlin's. We had been together always from the time we enlisted until his death. He was a good Christian boy and a good soldier, and set a good example to all his associates.

I would appreciate hearing from you on receipt of this. I am,
Yours sincerely,
ARCH G. LYLE.

Joe Baronovich Married

Miss Dorothy May Brownell, formerly of Seward, and, in the early days of that city's career, a little girl in Skagway where her father ran a hardware store, was married recently at Seattle to Joe Baronovich of Ketchikan. Miss Brownell had just returned from a visit to Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Baronovich will reside at Ketchikan.

shipped East. This is a big factor, not alone on account of the additional recooperage charges but the delay caused and the additional risk involved by keeping the fish exposed to the warm weather. In Scotland most of the barrel-makers burn their names in the bottom of the barrel, and buyers of herring, as well as regular inspectors, often look for the name of the barrel manufacturer, especially when herring are intended for cold storage for use, say, six months later. Certain buyers will not contract for any herring this season unless the fish are packed in the Standard Scotch-style barrel. With the adoption of the proposed herring inspection system, empty barrels will also have to stand inspection the same as in Scotland.

Attention is again directed to the fact that this season the trade will be much more critical with the cured product and packers will surely have gained valuable information from their mistakes of last year, so that the trade looks forward to a better cure in general. Scotch cure packed in domestic 200-pound barrels or inferior Scotch-style barrels will not find a prompt sale. If cure and quality are alike, the packer having the best cooperage will be the first to sell. Improper cooperage and fish packed in other than standard barrels are just causes for rejections. Moreover, a properly made barrel is a big time-saver when closing a barrel after fish are packed, besides saving time and trouble in setting up knocked down barrels.

NEWS NOTES FROM ALL OVER ALASKA

Culted From Our Exchanges to Show What Is Going on in the Great Northland—Alaska and Yukon.

For the first time in many years, wolves have been seen this winter near Fairbanks.

The gross receipts of a benefit show given for St. Joseph's hospital in Fairbanks a short time ago were $1,164.75.

The people of the Westward section of Alaska are pinning their faith on the fishing business and many companies, some of them stock companies, will operate this season.

A silver dollar was lost by some one in Wrangell a few days ago and the one who lost it advertised in the paper for it. Can it be possible that dollars are so scarce in Wrangell that every dollar in town can be identified.—Douglas Island News.

Joe Ibach recently shipped 100 blue fox skins from his fox farm on Middleton island, near Cordova. This represents the work of a year. Between times, Mr. Ibach and his wife pan the beach sands of the island for gold and pick up some money that way. The island is 60 miles from the mainland and is never visited except by the power schooner that takes supplies to the fox farmer. He and his wife have spent nine years at the place.

More than 5000 tons of rolling stock for the Alaska railroad will be shipped to Seward from Haliboa. The Coastwise Shipping & Barge company of Seattle has the contract to move the equipment.

Mountain sheep are not nearly as numerous in the vicinity of McCarthy, Alaska, this year as in previous years. Wolves have destroyed many of them, the wolves being unusually numerous this season.

The Whitehorse Star says there were 100 degrees difference in the temperatures there in 1918 and 1919. It was 30 degrees above zero in 1919 and 70 below in 1918.

At a recent meeting of the Seward city council a bill was paid for something over $3,000 for work done on the glacier stream near that town.

Daddy Van Valkenberg, the pioneer fox farmer of the Atlin country, died at Atlin on January 29th.

An agitation is on at Ketchikan for the public ownership of the light, water and telephone systems of that place.

C. E. Howard, manager of the Stedman Hotel at Ketchikan, is much concerned over the disappearance of one of his guests, Charles Ulfares. Ulfares arrived at the hotel on November 8 and was in and about the hotel for a week. He disappeared about the 20th leaving his suitcase with a number of well kept garments, a good overcoat and several other articles.

An appropriation of $25,000 has been made by congress to encourage the herring packing industry of Alaska. Men will be sent to Alaska to demonstrate to the packers the right method of packing the herring according to the Scotch style, and to standardize the inspection of the fish when made.

THE BOLSHEVIKI AND THE FAMILY

"Russia Shows the Way"

Decree of the Bolshevik Soviet, commissioned by Lenin and Trotsky to govern the city of Saratow; official translation presented to the United States senate committee by Robert H. Simmons, former representative of the department of commerce in Russia:

SOCIAL inequalities and legitimate marriage having been a condition in the past which served as an instrument in the hands of the bourgeoisie, thanks to which all the best species of all the beautiful women have been the property of the bourgeoisie, have prevented the proper continuation of the human race. Such ponderous arguments have induced the present organization to edict the following decree:

1. From March 1 the right to possess women having reached the ages of 17 to 32 is abolished.

2. The age of women shall be determined by birth certificates or passports or by the testimony of witnesses, and on failure to produce documents their age shall be determined by the black committee, who shall judge them according to appearance.

3. This decree does not affect women having five children.

4. The former owners may retain the right of using their wife without awaiting their turn.

5. In case of resistance of the husband he shall forfeit the right of the former paragraph.

6. All women according to this decree are exempted from private ownership and are proclaimed the property of the whole nation.

7. The distribution and management of the appropriated women in compliance with the decision of the above said organization are transferred to the Anarchist Saratow Club. In three days from the publication of this decree all women given by it to the use of the nation are obliged to present themselves to the given address and give the required information.

8. Before the black committee is formed for the realization of this decree, the citizens themselves shall be charged with such control. Remarks: Each citizen knowing a woman not submitting herself to the address under this decree is obliged to let it be known to the Anarchists' Club, giving the full address, full name and father's name of the offending woman.

9. Male citizens have the right to use one woman not oftener than three times a week, for three hours, observing the rules specified below.

10. Each man wishing to use a piece of public property should be a bearer of certificate from the factories committee, professional union, or workmen's, soldiers' and peasants' council, certifying that he belongs to the working family class.

11. Every working member is obliged to discount 2 per cent from his earnings to the fund of general public action. Remarks:
This committee in charge will put these discounting funds, with the specifications of the names and lists, into the state banks and other institutions handing down these funds to the popular generation.

12. Male citizens not belonging to the working class in order to have the right equally with the proletariat are obliged to pay 100 rubles monthly into the public funds.

13. The local branch of the state bank is obliged to begin to reserve the payments to the national generation funds.

14. All women proclaimed by this decree to be the national property will receive from the funds an allowance of 238 rubles a month.

15. All women who are pregnant are released of the direct state duties for four months, up to three months before and one month after childbirth.

16. The children born are given to an institution for training after they are 1 month old, where they are trained and educated until they are 17 years of age, at the cost of the public funds.

17. In case of a birth of twins the mother is to receive a prize of 200 rubles.

18. All citizens, men and women, are obliged to watch carefully their health and to make each week an examination of urine and blood. Remark: The examinations are to be made daily at the laboratories of the popular generation health.

19. Those who are guilty of spreading venereal disease will be held responsible and severely punished.

20. Women having lost their health may apply to the Soviet for a pension.

21. The chief of anarchists will be in charge of perfecting the temporary arrangements and technical measures concerning the realization of this decree.

22. All those refusing to recognize and support this decree will be proclaimed sabotage, enemies of the people and counteranarchists, and will be held to the severest responsibilities.

Crowd the Front Pews. Adver- tise Your Belief. Go to Church.

WHEN you GO TO CHURCH Sunday MARCH RIGHT UP TO THE FRONT PEWS.
Don't take a seat in the rear of the church.
In many churches some worshippers make Statistics show that communities with the greater number of churches are prosperous. The people, as a whole, are HAPPY

God is forgiving. He is patient. But his patience may be ex-

GAS BOATS

[From Hydaburg New Native]

THE FREDELIA

Mr. Luke Frank, is the owner of this musically named boat. She was built by a Seattle firm and cost $2000. She holds eight tons and has a standard engine that can turn up 7 miles per hour. Last summer the crew was Captain Luke Frank, engineer David Frank, Thos. Hanberry and Frank Williams. She fished three months for the Columbia Salmon Co. at Craig. Season's catch: Cohoes 800, dog salmon 32000, sockeyes 1900, humpbacks 25000.

Frederick George, Reporter.

THE MARION

The Marion is the possession of Edwin Scott and cost $1300. Capacity is 6 tons. The engine is a 14 h. p. Riga, No. 7438. Her speed averages 6 miles.

Captain Scott had a Mexican crew last year. However, luck was not on his side in the fishing game so the Marion crew disbanded early in the season and Mr. Scott went to work in Craig mill.

Edwin Scott hopes to make up for the slackness of last year this spring.

THE ELSIE D

Sam Douglas is the owner of the gasboat Elsie D, and the husband of Elsie Douglas who is the engineer. Curious though it be most boats are named after girls. Hydaburg has its Nancy, Alice, Queen, Bertha, Marion, and Elsie D. Maybe girls' names are given so as to conform to the gender of ship which Captain Neptune said should be feminine. Sailors always call her "she."

Mrs. Elsie Douglas is a constant member of the crew of her husband's boat.

The boat holds 8 tons and has a 16 h. p. Standard engine, No. 3118. She turns up 6 miles per hour.

Last year she fished for Hunters Bay Cannery. James Nathlan and Jones Yeltatsie were the other members of the crew. Season's catch: Cohoes 300, sockeyes 260, dog salmon 1200, humpback 8200.

St. Philip's Church

March 16, 7:30 p. m.

Great discoveries have been made lately, largely by Americans, among the ruins of cities made famous by New Testament and early church history. Many of these discoveries are certainly surprising. They let us see how strong the church became in the first three hundred years in spite of the terrible persecution that it had to endure.

Eleven slides will be shown giving all together about 30 views of these old monuments. It is an interesting fact that a medallion has been found which probably has correct likenesses of St. Peter and St. Paul. Other such striking discoveries have been made. Come and learn about them.

Save Pennies—Waste Dollars

Some users of printing save pennies by getting inferior work and lose dollars through lack of advertising value in the work they get. Printers as a rule charge very reasonable prices, for none of them get rich although nearly all of them work hard.

Moral: Give your printing to a good printer and save money.

Our Printing Is Unexcelled

Glory remains with us and so do the war taxes.

Boycott the food profiteers and they will soon come down.

Now it seems that German efficiency was only skin deep.

Look at the total cost in mere money, if you think war pays.

And now for the making of war histories, world without end.

Some of those bull players who rushed to the steel league will find they did not make such a wise move as they supposed.

It must be a great relief to the comic papers of Germany to be able at last to work off their large accumulation of jokes on the ex-kaiser.

If America is to feed the Germans she may as well expect to hear complaints about the menu such as hospitality seldom escapes.

Running the entire railroad system of the United States doesn't seem to be so much of a job, judging by the number of men mentioned to tackle it.

An U-boat commander who refused to destroy food cargoes would have been disciplined to the hilt. Yet Germany now issues a plea for rations.

When one contemplates the new war taxes and the high cost of living, it is difficult to be content to leave the ex-kaiser to the stings of his own conscience.

During our participation in the war 2,163 Americans were captured, while we took 44,000 German prisoners, which tells about the whole story of comparative merits.

Government and Business Must Co-operate In Upbuilding of American Industry

By EDWARD N. HURLEY, Formerly Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission

OUR business men and our government, have been losing valuable time during the past twenty years in trying to settle our economic and business problems, not by co-operation, not by any scientific method which will bring about results beneficial to our people as a whole, but by resorting to the courts.

I know business has been sick, and business has been in a large measure to blame for its illness, but instead of sending for a doctor who could prescribe a remedy that would give practical and permanent relief the GOVERNMENT SENT FOR LAWYERS, AND YOU KNOW THE RESULT. It is estimated that 90 per cent of our manufacturers do not know their true costs.

I predict that within five years there will be very little money loaned by any banker in the United States to any merchant or manufacturer who does not present a statement showing detailed information not only regarding his true assets and liabilities, but also indicating that he is conducting his business in an efficient manner and that he absolutely knows his true costs.

It is my feeling that if the government should not encourage trade associations and the reconstruction and upbuilding of American business very little progress will be made in our country's development. Men at the head of factories need the point of view of what might be called the statesmanship of business.

NOWHERE IS CO-OPERATION AMONG BUSINESS MEN AND BETWEEN THEM AND THE GOVERNMENT MORE ESSENTIAL THAN IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF OUR EXPORT TRADE.

It is a well known fact that competition in foreign markets is national, and if we are to be effective competitors in foreign countries our business men must unite their forces and move forward as a unit.

System of Credits Should Be Devised To Finance the Shipping Industry

By PERRY BELMONT, Banker and Financier

TO create a sufficient amount of American tonnage to make us independent beyond the water's edge will call for an investment of from $600,000,000 to $1,200,000,000. How shall any such sum of money be induced to seek its investment in American ships?

It is the agricultural section of the country that has always stood rigid in its opposition to any direct government assistance to shipping on the ground that it would be aid to a favored few. It must come to be recognized, however, that the producer and the shipowner have a common interest. The farmer not only must be aided in securing his crops, but he SHOULD ALSO BE ENABLED TO REACH FOREIGN MARKETS.

In order to develop the required merchant fleet a national policy should be adopted that would render investment in ocean carrying shipping attractive to capital. A system of credit might be devised for financing the construction and operation of tonnage which would do for the shipping industry what is about to be done for agriculture through the rural credit system.

AN ENLARGEMENT OF THE RURAL CREDIT SYSTEM ITSELF MIGHT OFFER THE BASIS OR CROWDWORK OF THE PROPOSED PLAN TO ESTABLISH A "MARITIME" CREDIT SYSTEM.

Country Lacks Facilities For Preparing Men For Foreign Trade

By E. E. PRATT, Chief of Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce

THE great demonstration for foreign trade in this country began literally before the echoes of the first guns in Europe died away. It was really ten months later, however, before we began to get our bearings and before the business men of our country actually got down to brass tacks in this foreign trade business. Some of them have not got there yet. But in spite of all this noise, backed up as it has been recently by a considerable amount of real solid activity, the universities and colleges have not yet awakened either to the need in the everyday business world OR THE OPPORTUNITY FOR PRACTICAL SERVICE THAT LIES BEFORE THEM.

It is not sufficient for the professors to point to a few language courses, many of which do not really teach the languages, and to a general course of commercial geography, nor to a course on the history of South America, nor even to a general course on foreign trade. Foreign trade has a technique of its own. No doubt many of the courses in the ordinary school are excellent as leading to foreign trade.

BUT THE MERE ASSEMBLING OF A FEW PAPER COURSES UNDER A DENOMINATION WHICH WILL ATTRACT STUDENTS INTERESTED IN THE SUBJECT IS NOT SUFFICIENT.

Higher Development of Accounting Has Made Big Business Possible

By Professor JOHN RAYMOND WILDMAN, New York University

THE trust movement in the United States began in 1898. During the three years which followed one hundred and forty-nine large combinations, with a total capitalization of three billion five hundred and seventy-eight million six hundred and fifty thousand dollars were formed. Many writers and some fairly prominent authorities predicted failure. It was agreed that no one man or board of directors could successfully administer such huge organizations.

The United States Steel corporation and the United States Rubber company could scarcely be called failures. Accounting made it possible for the executives who were placed at the heads of these giant corporations with their many constituent companies to have laid before them information as to what was being done.

ACCOUNTING MADE IT POSSIBLE TO RUN A HUGE BUSINESS AS INTELLIGENTLY AS A SMALL BUSINESS HAD PREVIOUSLY BEEN RUN.

Industry everywhere in the United States seems to be awakening to the need of accounting. The possibilities of accounting which the big combinations were quick to see and make profitable use of are now being realized by the rank and file of industrial organizations. Good accounting with intelligent use of the information presented increases profits and stimulates industry. Business is a mass of financial transactions.

BUSINESS WITHOUT KNOWLEDGE CONCERNING THESE TRANSACTIONS MEANS FAILURE. KNOWLEDGE WITHOUT ACCOUNTING IS IMPOSSIBLE.

MUST MEET WAR BILLS WITH LOAN-GOV. LYNCH

To the Citizens of the Twelfth Federal Reserve District:

JAMES K. LYNCH

and prosperity. It means that the market price of government bonds will soon stabilize at par or better. It also means that commercial, agricultural, and industrial affairs will stabilize, and that the Hun-inspired clamor will cease.

We were advised that the war would last through 1919, probably through 1920, so we were prepared for that; to have done less would have been suicide. We prepared to crush the Hun on his own ground, and he prudently quit. It cost us some money but it saved the lives of half a million of our men. Was money ever better spent?

Now we have bills to pay, promises to make good, our men to bring home. This will take from five to six billion dollars. Let us get ready and raise it. A big task, but the last, and therefore easy. All together, shoulder to shoulder, and the loan goes over! The "Ninety-first" is the Pacific Coast Division; remember their achievement, and honor ourselves by living up to it.

JAMES K. LYNCH,
 Governor, Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco; Chairman, Liberty Loan General Executive Board, Twelfth Federal Reserve District.

"But, Rastus, why not repent tonight and be saved?"

Firms Funds Well Guarded.
 Six Chinamen were at one time partners in business in San Francisco, says Walter Newton of Seattle. A creditor of the firm, after vain efforts to collect what was due him, found out that the money was in the safe, but that the strongbox had six different locks. Each member of the firm had one key, and it was necessary to have a unanimous agreement among them before the money could be taken from the safe.
